

Dear Natives and Friends of Brownville,

Brownville's strongest asset is it's people and their history.

Much of that history lies safely in the hearts, minds and hands of those who have lived their lives here—protecting and strengthening the Village that they and others love so well.

Sharing the history of Brownville has been a privilege and duty passed down from Brownville's forefathers and mothers through time.

There is an opportunity now to share your important stories and photographs with the world on Brownville's official website www.Brownville-NE.com. This site is owned by the Merchants of Brownville and managed, developed and updated by myself, Nora Tallmon.

This Fall we will begin to showcase stories and photographs of Brownville, and offer Brownville and Nemaha County genealogical information online.

Please contact me and I will duplicate your photographs, or photograph objects for you, for placement on the web. We would also like to record your stories and historical information, and those of your forbearers, on the internet.

If you would allow us to record this treasured information we would greatly appreciate it, as would those around the world—now and in the future.

With Highest Regard,
Nora Tallmon
